
How To Finger Knit A Blanket

How To Finger Knit A Blanket

*Downloaded from db.whlcarchitecture.com
by Mathews & Nicole*

INTRODUCTION: THE JOY OF CREATING WITHOUT NEEDLES

Imagine wrapping yourself in a soft, warm blanket that you made entirely with your own two hands—no knitting needles, no hooks, and no complicated tools required. This is the magic of finger knitting. This ancient craft, which uses only your fingers as the loom, has seen a remarkable resurgence in popularity. It is the perfect entry point for anyone who has ever wanted to create a cozy, handmade item but felt intimidated by traditional knitting or crochet. Learning how to finger knit a blanket is not only achievable for absolute beginners, but it is also a deeply satisfying and therapeutic process. The rhythmic movement of looping yarn over your fingers can be a form of moving meditation, melting away stress as you watch your creation grow one loop at a time. Whether you are looking for a unique gift, a personal comfort project, or a fun activity to do with children, finger knitting offers a tactile and rewarding experience. In this comprehensive guide, we will take you through every single step, from choosing your yarn to securing your last stitch, so you can confidently create your own beautiful, chunky blanket.

WHAT IS FINGER KNITTING?

Finger knitting is a textile art form that uses your fingers—most commonly your index, middle, ring, and pinky fingers—as the tools to create a knitted fabric. Instead of holding needles, you wrap, loop, and pull the yarn over your fingers to create a chain. This technique is often one of the first methods taught to children learning about yarn crafts because it develops fine motor skills and requires minimal coordination. However, it is by no means a childish pastime. Adults have embraced finger knitting for making stunning, oversized blankets, scarves, rugs, and home decor items. The resulting fabric is typically a thick, chunky chain that can be sewn or braided together to form larger projects. When you learn how to finger knit a blanket, you are essentially mastering a simple, repeatable stitch that forms a long rope. This rope is then coiled and joined to create the width and length of a blanket. The beauty of this method is its simplicity; you only need one piece of yarn, your hands, and a little bit of patience.

BENEFITS OF FINGER KNITTING A BLANKET

Before we dive into the steps, let's explore why finger knitting a blanket is such a popular and beneficial project:

- No Special Tools Required: You do not need to buy expensive needles, hooks, or looms. Your hands are the only tools you need, making it an incredibly accessible craft.
- Perfect for Beginners: The technique is straightforward and easy to learn. Within minutes, you can be knitting a consistent chain. This makes it a fantastic first project for anyone new to yarn crafts.

- Portable and Mess-Free: You can carry a ball of yarn and your hands anywhere. Work on your blanket while watching a movie, commuting, or relaxing in the park. There is no bulky equipment to lug around.
- Creates a Chunky, Luxurious Texture: Finger knitting produces a thick, plush fabric that is perfect for cozy blankets. The large stitches create a beautiful, modern aesthetic that is very popular in home decor.
- Fast Results: Because the stitches are large, a finger-knitted blanket grows much faster than a traditionally knitted one. You can complete a lap blanket in a weekend.
- Mindful and Relaxing: The repetitive motion of finger knitting is incredibly calming and can help reduce anxiety. It is a form of active meditation that keeps your hands busy and your mind focused.

MATERIALS NEEDED FOR YOUR FINGER KNITTED BLANKET

One of the best aspects of learning how to finger knit a blanket is the minimal material list. You likely have everything you need at home already, except for the yarn.

- Yarn: This is your most important material. For a blanket, you need a soft, bulky, or super bulky weight yarn. Chunky yarns (weight category 5 or 6) are ideal because they create a thick fabric and work up quickly. Avoid fine or sport-weight yarn as it will take an enormous amount of time and may break under tension. Popular choices include:

- Merino Wool or Wool Blends: Warm, soft, and has good elasticity.
- Acrylic Yarn: Affordable, easy to care for, and available in many colors.
- Cotton Yarn: Great for lighter blankets or baby blankets, but can be less elastic.
- T-shirt Yarn: Made from recycled cotton jersey, this is very durable and creates a sturdy, thick blanket.
- Scissors: A sharp pair of scissors to cut the yarn when you are finished and for weaving in ends.
- Your Hands: Clean and dry hands are all you need. Some people find it helpful to have a little lotion on their hands to help the yarn glide, but this is optional.
- Yarn Needle (Optional): A large tapestry or yarn needle can be helpful for weaving in loose ends, though you can also do this with your fingers.

How Much Yarn Do You Need?

The amount of yarn depends entirely on the size of the blanket you want to make. A lap blanket (approximately 35 x 40 inches) made with super bulky yarn might require around 5 to 6 skeins of yarn (each skein being about 100-150 yards). A larger throw blanket (50 x 60 inches) could need 8 to 12 skeins. Always buy an extra skein or two to ensure you don't run out mid-project. It is better to have leftover yarn than to have a blanket that is too small.

HOW TO FINGER KNIT A BLANKET: STEP-BY-STEP GUIDE

Now we arrive at the heart of the article. Follow these steps carefully to learn how to finger knit a blanket. We will break this down into manageable parts: making the chain and then joining the chain into a blanket.

Step 1: Making the Slip Knot

Take the end of your yarn and create a loop. The working yarn (the part connected to the ball) should be on top of the tail. Pinch the spot where the yarn crosses. Reach through the loop and pull the working yarn up through it to create a new loop. Gently pull the tail to tighten the knot around the new loop. Place this new loop onto your pointer (index) finger. This is your first stitch.

Step 2: Casting On (Creating the Foundation Chain)

This initial step creates the first few links of your chain. Hold the slip knot on your index finger. Now, you will use all four fingers.

1. Hold your non-dominant hand out flat, palm facing you. Have the tail of the yarn hanging down from your index finger.

2. Take the working yarn and weave it behind your middle finger, then in front of your ring finger, and then behind your pinky finger. You have now wrapped the yarn around all four fingers in a figure-eight pattern, starting from the index finger.
3. Now, bring the yarn back in the opposite direction: behind your pinky, in front of your ring, behind your middle, and in front of your index. You now have two strands of yarn across each finger.
4. You will now create the stitches. Take the bottom loop on your little finger and lift it over the top loop and off your finger. Repeat this for the ring finger, then the middle finger, and finally the index finger. You will have one loop remaining on each finger.
5. Repeat steps 2-4 again. You are now wrapping two strands and lifting the bottom one over. After doing this a few more times, you will have a chain of stitches growing from your palm, and you will have one loop on each finger.

After 3-4 rows of this, you can free your pinky. Instead of wrapping around all four, now you only need to wrap around your index, middle, and ring fingers. This is the standard three-finger cast-on for a blanket chain.

Step 3: The Basic

Finger Knit Stitch (The Chain)

This is the core stitch you will repeat to create your long chain.

1. Start with one loop on your index, middle, and ring fingers.
2. Take the working yarn across the back of your hand, then in front of your index finger, behind your middle, and in front of your ring finger. You now have two strands on each finger.
3. Using your other hand, gently lift the bottom loop over the top loop on your ring finger, and let it drop off the back of your finger. Repeat this for the middle finger, then the index finger.
4. You will now have one loop remaining on each finger.
5. Repeat steps 2-4 again. You are now knitting! You will see a beautiful chain forming from your palm.

Step 4: Continuing the Chain

Keep repeating the basic stitch (wrap, lift bottom over top, drop off) until your chain is extremely long. How long? As a general rule, your chain needs to be about 8 to 12 times longer than the width of your intended blanket. For a 40-inch wide blanket, you will need a chain of about 320 to 480 inches (27 to 40 feet). Do not stop until you have a massive pile of this knitted chain. This is the most time-consuming part of learning how to finger knit a blanket, but it is also the most rhythmic and relaxing.

Step 5: Joining the Chain to Create the Blanket

Now you have a giant rope of knitted yarn. The next step is to turn this rope into a flat blanket by coiling and sewing it together.

1. Lay out the start: Take the beginning end of your chain (the tail with the slip knot). Hold it down. This will be the center of your blanket.
2. Coil the chain: Working in a spiral, begin wrapping the chain around itself. Each new row of the coil sits next to the previous row. Think of it like a flat, coiled snake. Use your hands to gently press the rows together so they lie flat.
3. Join as you go: As you add each new coil of chain, you need to join it to the previous coil so your blanket holds together. There are two common ways to do this:
 - The Sewing Method (Recommended for beginners): Use a yarn needle and a